Dear Editor,
Everyone gets accustomed to the rumble of the passing train. When I hear one coming I dash to where I can see the engine. My hobby is trains and frequently my father and I go train-spotting. We are both model train enthusiasts and are constructing a layout in our attic. Soon, the steam and electric models will be rushing through countryside and towns. My favourite models are my own King George V and one of the diesel models. Ian Warburton, Wolston, Warwickshire.

You do sound enthusiastic about trains, Ian! My knowledge of trains is limited to where they are going—and I have been known to get that wrong too!

From Gareth Jones, Marlow, Bucks.

Dear Ed,
I would like to tell you about my little kitten, Tiger the Terror, who chases everything that moves. One day I came into my room and started my electric train set. My mother called me to come and help bring the washing in. So I did, leaving the train set running for a moment. Meanwhile, Tiger came into my room, chased the train, caught it and ran behind the wardrobe with one of the coaches! Anyway, when I came back to my room to find the train running one coach short, I wasn't surprised to find Tiger chewing it behind the wardrobe. I soon got it back though, and it was all right. Love Andrew.

Phew! We have a lot of model train lovers this week. Perhaps you should take Tiger to see Ian Warburton's attic. On second thoughts, perhaps not!

Dear Editor,
I, Philip Newport and my friend, Courteney Ellis, designed this puzzle for you to answer: Dad wants to catch Mighty Moth but there is a swimming pool separating them which is 8 metres by 16 metres. Dad has two planks of wood, each 12 metres long. If there is a hedge running round the pool except on the sides Mighty and Dad are standing on, how can Dad catch Mighty Moth, using the planks of wood, without getting himself wet?

Dear Editor,
I have just learnt to ride my two-wheeler bicycle. I had to buy three new things for my bicycle. There were a new tyre and inner tube, because I had worn a big hole through the tyre when I was riding up and down outside the International Stores in Heathfield. Then, as I was going down to Caffyus in Heathfield with Dad, suddenly, I started to pedal faster and I found out that the wheels were not going faster. That was when I had to buy a new free wheel sprocket. And that is what happened to my bicycle last week. From Peter Marshall, Heathfield, Sussex.

I see, another expert! I think it is very good that you found out what was wrong with your bike and put it right. Do you go to cycling proficiency lessons? They are a great help to anyone who is learning to ride a bike, or anyone who is interested in bicycle maintenance. Your school should have details of cycling proficiency classes in your area.
